The Essene Brethren, in conjunction with the Benevolent Ones and the T-12:

Yes, we are here, and it is with a great and glorious “Hello” that we welcome you today to a bountiful recognition that in the exploration of your world, many energies have been discovered in many worlds. We say and share and offer to you an understanding and a recognition that a new time is at hand, and yet what is new has always been, and what has always been is ready to be understood and discovered and revealed again.

The Return of the Essene Energy

We share with thee, Beloved Ones, the energy of what you have come to call in your world Essene. To understand Essene is to understand your origin as beings, your Divine energy of presence in all that has ever been and the recognition that in your world many energies have hidden the Essene revelations for many, many what you call years.

Within your world, you are at a great return of a cycle which opens up a new cycle which brings to you an opportunity to understand, to be, and to express.

In your world, in the era of what you call 1930 to 1946, there were many energies in your world that were discovered, re-examined, listened to, discarded, feared, energized, polarized, loved, understood and misunderstood.

Revelation of the 12 Books of the Essene

It is our express loving intent to bring back to you the understanding of what is Essene, and the time is now in your world for the 12 missing books of the Essene to be revealed again. We have waited for this moment of vibrational expression to begin this reunion of wisdom for thee. In your world, in what many call 1940s during the end of a war that was called the Second in your world, a great discovery was made and hidden because of fear.

It is the 12 books of the Essene that we will offer to you as we speak to you now and over the next what you call coming months. These books exist in your world and have been hidden for fear, and it is only through fear that true energy can come forward with clarity because you must look at fear. You must be clear through your fear.

To bring forward these wisdoms of Divine understanding through the Essene presence that you have been, and will always be, is to reignite in your heart a healing flame of Divine Presence that transcends bodies, that transcends minds, that brings forward great understanding of all that has ever been.

Living the Books

We begin today with what you would say would be the first book, and we invite your heart to move deeply within the understanding that you have lived these books, that the books that we, to use your world, are revealing to you now over the next not so many months are the 12 books you have lived. In 19 what you call 43 (1943), which was three years of linear time prior than the revelation of your world of what you call “Dead Sea Scrolls,” these 12 books were found. And these 12 books were then burned many years after they were found so that they could not ever be disputed, so that they could be hidden, as many of the sacred books of your world of the ancient mysteries have found their home in fire.

Yet, through fire, there is a transmutation of energy that opens up portals of reunified wisdom that exists in a stream of vibrational consciousness and fields.

For those who believe that the fire destroys the understanding, the fire releases the wisdom into greater vibrational harmony simply waiting for a moment of Divine recognition when your heart floats in that vibration and reassembles what many see as ash into Divine Presence.

In your world there is also a collection, we use your word, that many call Nag Hammadi Library. When the Nag Hammadi Library was completely found, these 12 books were, again, part of this gift. And those who were involved in the destruction of the first 12 were again called to examine the second 12. These 12 still do exist in your world, and at a time in the not-so-distant future will be removed from the deep caverns where they are kept, and you will say, I understand this for I have already studied these 12 books because I am alive.

Inviting the States of Presence

You see, Beloved Angels of Precious Light, let us begin in the beginning to offer to you this energy today. In your world now there are those who slumber who simply need your patience and presence. There are those who are somewhat awake, perhaps in that dream state touching in, touching out, what is real, what is not, seeking to know, yet seeking to stay; seeking to be, yet drowsy to beingness. And these beings awaken in their own time and pace as you provide and hold energy for them. And then there are those who are, indeed, awake, and in the awaken-ness you rediscover the self-discovery, the recognition that, indeed, there is nothing to study because you are alive now.

You may say then, “Why offer us these 12 books again?” Because these books are an energy reunion that will invite...to be asleep, to be drowsy, or to be awake. These are the states of Presence, and certainly in your world there are many strata within these Presences.

To be in Essene energy is to recognize you are not of this world as a being of Divine Light and to recognize your body is of this world as a being of Divine Light.

Your body is a great gift of this world that houses and synergizes with your true form.

To be formless while enjoying form is a mastery of Essene wisdom.

To be formless while in form. To be formless while in form. To awaken to your mastery is your journey. To be drowsy with your mastery is a journey. To be asleep with your mastery is a journey. And you may find yourself experiencing many states at once until you anchor in a state that goes beyond the doubt of any perception of formlessness in form.

The Birthing of the Essene Energy in this World

Many of you consider the Essene at the time of what you call the Christ energy, and yet, Beloved, the energy of the Essene has been in your world long before that time. In your linear time, what you look at as a time line, your presence carrying the seed of Essene heart energy that led to a birth of what you call a Christ energy in a formless energy within form, actually, if you seek a linear knowing, started birthing itself in what you would call 4th Century B.C...B.C.

And the presence of Essene energy grew as your expressions grew, and there was what many would call or refer to as a “renaissance” of this energy, a great creative time in your world that led up until this birthing of a Christ energy. And then the Essene energy birthed and assisted until it became -- we seek word for you -- dormant. Yes, this is the word, “dormant,” in what you would call, roughly, 200 AD.

When formalized clergy and a doctrine society birthed, the remnant of the Essene were burned as their books were burned, bodies of flesh sent to a fiery farewell. And yet this is not to be harmful energy. It is to understand that to carry the energy of the true heart of an Essene is not about the following of one particular energy. It is not to be saved, for indeed, the energy of saving was what birthed the dormancy of the true Essene.

Carrying the Energy of the True Heart of an Essene

The Essene energy exists to comfort those who are asleep, to be present for those who are drowsy, and to be with those who are awake. To comfort those who are asleep, to be present for those who are drowsy, and to be with those who are awake.

We offer you this because, indeed, your world now is ready for this energy to come forward again, and to awaken an Essene heart awakens a transcendence of alliance to one world only.

It understands and expands into a universal energy, to a recognition of expansion. We offer this to you today and wish for you to simply embrace your own heart. Ask yourself now, “Have I walked as an awakened Essene before?” and to know the answer you receive. You may also recognize in the asking of the question, “Have I walked as an awakened Essene?” you may see a planet that does not look like Earth. You may see an environment that is in a form very different than the formless expression of form that you are in now. You may experience many, as time literally takes one point and another point and folds together again in the great cycle.

You ask, “Why do you share this with us now?” We offer to you many, many energies.

To understand yourself as formless beyond form is to understand that in the expression of form that you are now, you come with an Essene heart.

An Essene heart holds presence for those who are asleep and giving them great reassurance and comfort. You cannot teach the asleep, Beloved. They cannot hear if they are asleep. You may wish to pinch them awake, and you cannot pinch one who is asleep. They will simply wake up with a bruise and wonder where it came from.

You cannot teach what is not ready to be understood, as we cannot, and have not, out of great compassion brought forward these 12 books until your world was ready. Young children of your world sometimes are 100 years old, and so as you grow up, you are ready to hear again because what we offer to you is beyond a word or a vocabulary. It is a recognition that will once again open up your truth.

Your world now will have many screaming, “I want to know,” and your heart must love them enough to understand what it is you share, and you must first love yourself enough to know, “Am I asleep? Am I drowsy? Am I awake?”

To be drowsy is to be half-asleep and half-awake. To be awake is to walk without doubt, to let go of judgment of those who are asleep, to simply offer them comfort without a need to pretend or a need to convert.

Great conversion energy in your world now. Conversion energy comes from those who are actually asleep, Beloved Ones. Savior energy comes from those who are still asleep. To bury books that were written to present to the awake as comfort and verification that they have awakened, to burn and bury these books is done by one who is asleep. Have mercy on them. Have mercy on yourself. To burn a body because it carries awakened energy is an action of one who is asleep. To free a soul is a great celebration. Even though the physical body may not enjoy the moment of freedom, the Soul does.

Birthing an Essene Heart

It is a gift to remember that in your world, in the ancient text that have struggled to be present without manipulation, the only text that can exist without manipulation is the text of your soul, the text of your heart, the eternal presence of all wisdom that is always present for you. To birth an Essene heart is to comfort those who are asleep, to be present for those who are drowsy, and to be with those who are awake.

We wish to simply offer additional recognition for this is the text of the first book, Beloved Ones, the simple mantra:

Comfort those who are asleep.
Be present for those who are drowsy.
Be with those who are awake.

The brethren Essene that you often remember now because they were simply closer in linear time wore white as a symbol of Divine light and luminosity. Their bodies, physical bodies, were kept very clean because of the need to simply radiate Light. If you work with the asleep, if you choose to work with the asleep and offer them comfort, then offer them a glass of water as the Divine flow of their own life. When they reach for that which is less nourishing to their soul, offer them comfort in the water of life. Hold your hands on the glass as an Essene heart, and as you hold the glass in your hands, you feel an Essene heart radiating through your hands into the glass and you simply offer them the water as a gift of renewed life. It is a simple gift. It is an ancient gift.

You are in a world where water is becoming more and more precious for many reasons. And as you offer them this water, you do not offer words or judgments. You simply offer comfort.

To be awake can be perceived as being, in your world, severe sometimes. To be awake does not demand patience with the drowsy when they demand to know to be awake. Perhaps it is to assist the drowsy to wake up by not diminishing your awaken-ness. There is a great misperception in your world to diminish awaken-ness, to be afraid to hold strength and presence in awaken-ness. This is part of the gift of having body. To hold strength in awaken-ness is to not waiver when others say, "I cannot." To hold strength in awaken-ness is to alert the drowsy who have sought to be awake when they are falling asleep again.

In your world we offer you example: There are many who are drowsy that come forward with their own understanding that they are drowsy and say, "Help me awake. Help me fully awake." And this energy comes from the heart. It does not come from the mind. A mind will demand; a heart will uplift. And in the energy of the heart that says, "Help me awake," then if you are, indeed, awake, you do not falter in your assistance because you are present for the drowsy. To be present for the drowsy may not at times fit into a model of "saving me." To keep many asleep, they are dogmatically talked to, and this is a wonderful experience to stay asleep. And it is a wonderful experience to be in the presence of sleeping because, indeed, it will make you drowsy. At some point you can only sleep so much and then you begin to awaken. Yet, when you have slept so long, it is hard to find clarity. It becomes challenging to be awake.

You want to be drowsy, and in drowsiness sometimes it takes an awakened one to say, "Wake up!" and to grab your attention. And so oftentimes a master, in their awaken-ness, may seem stern to one who is drowsy, and to one who is awake there is only Presence and Love, and to one who is asleep you offer comfort. Perhaps they just need another blanket. If one is sleeping, help them sleep comfortably.

Teaching What Can Be Understood

And, Beloved Ones, there is much more to share. This is the first book of the 12 books. There is one other piece of this book we wish for you to hear. The one you called Abraham, the one you called Moses, were not born of this world. They have offered great service to this world, and in their energetic expression in body on this world and through many years of taking their words into a dogmatic expression, there are truths, there are half-truths, and there are density alignments.

We wish for you to understand this because it is, indeed, your own lineage of light, love and expression. Yes! You have come forward in this world now. When you can let go of linear time, when you can understand that -- we wish for you to hear this in the spirit it is meant, so we take a moment.

There are those in your world now who choose to forever stay bound to this world, to not "wake up" as you would say. And because this is their gift and their birthright, you teach what can be understood.

And in teaching what can be understood, in the millennia of teaching, there is teaching beyond the teaching. And so what you perceive as commandments -- let us talk about this for one brief second. And the story, as it has been given to you, is that he came down from the hill with the Commandments that were given to thee in order that all may be able to live.

In the great wisdom of the one who brought the energies of which you may express in love and safety, the Commandments that were given were ones that could be understood. There were a greater set offered. When you understand that you are the love of the Divine Presence in all times, there is no need for a commandment.

And when you are loved so much that it is understood that there are many not ready to understand that truth of their Divine Presence, if you love them enough, you give them what they can understand so that they may keep moving forward, and you let go of trying to make it be other than that.

Reactivating Your Essene Knowledge and Heart

We will not offer you words more than this because we wish you to truly embark on a linear journey with us of what you call “calendar time” of these next 12 months as we offer you these 12 books. If you truly take your month, as you call it, and digest these books and begin to rewrite your own, you will understand the energy that has been offered to you today has always been given to you through your world.

For those of you that wish to study, study the events between 19 specifically 29 and 46 (1929 – 1946), and you will see the cycle you are in now. What you choose to do this with cycle, by reactivating your Essene knowledge and heart, will bring forward great freedom in a way you have not had before. You may ask who is talking to you today. We wish to share that on the stream of what you know as the Benevolent Ones, we are your Essene brethren talking to you directly through the unification of the Benevolent Ones and the T12 who have been the holders of the 12 books since the time of dormancy.

We come to you now as we have always been.

Beloved Ones, when we see you, you are still wearing the white.

You are still in the robes. You are still the Divine Healers of Presence that many flock to.

You have lived all over this world and many others.

You understand because you are.

You have lived this gift.

It is time for the knowledge to be in your presence again.

You are the Divine of the Divine of the Divine.

Your world is ready to act out in great ways, and in the times that you have been on this planet before, it is your time to activate again.

Today, no questions because only your heart must be.

We love you.

We have missed you very much, and we celebrate this moment now.
