The Essene Brethren, in unification with the Benevolent Ones and the T-12:

Hello. With great reverence we bring you the joyous news that all is well, and in the great reverence and the joyous news that all is indeed well, we say, and welcome you, to a journey of journeys.

Being the Journey

What is a journey? What is a journey? To begin, a journey implies an ending of a journey; does it not? Yes. To simply be the journey is to understand your limitless gift. To be the journey, the journey of the Divine soul, is the book we bring to you today.

You enjoy this book? Yes. Good. It is good. The journey of the Divine soul, Beloved Angels, in the time that you have called the Essene -- we wish now to unravel time for you for when we say to you the time of Essene, or Es-see-nah, you say to yourself, "Oh, the time of what many call the Christ energy." Yes? And yet the journey of the soul, the journey of the Es-see-nah, has been, indeed, one that began, begins, and continues in all ways without an end. It simply is. It simply is. And as it is, you are. As it is, you are.

To understand the journey of the soul is to also let go of what you call definition of soul. To define a soul is to limit a soul. To try to explain the soul is to rationalize energy.

To be able to journey in a continuous form, like a beautiful circle without the beginning and an end, is to recognize that all experience of the Divine matter stream of light, love and energy is a unified experience.

We give your brain a moment. Yes.

The Birth of the Es-see-nah Energy

Let us begin. Eons ago, eons ago, eons after eons after eons, in an eternal loop of endless time, of limitless expansion, there was a moment of Divine recognition of expansion, a self-awareness as your brain would seek to interpret this. And in that self-awareness, we will simply catapult you ahead to this world and the Es-see-nah energy. The Es-see-nah energy was born of the heart of your soul which is one energy of Divine love.

To birth this energy, to birth this recognition, is to recognize simply the gift of Presence.

This energy conjoined, or perhaps better way to say, married, the stream of Love and sought to bring a presence into manifest form as part of the journey. Thereby it was a, what you would call, “twin energy” that came forward and said, “We will come and be and play in a world of Divine Expression as part of a journey that is in motion always.”

Now, when this energy was presented or encapsulated or impregnated a world of receptive harmony, then energy birthed itself, and birthed itself in many forms, forms you call oceans, forms you call mountains, trees, air. And as it formed itself, the energy in a formless expression sought form also to play with the oceans and the mountains and the trees and the air, and so it began to form itself again. Some of this energy blended with the energy of what you call the soil, the earth. You hear this expression “dust to dust,” yes? And some of this energy did not.

And through an expansion of knowing the presence of the journey, in conjunction with the expansion of love, your journey grew.

And so you see, Beloveds, you say Es-see-nah. Essene, time of Christ. We say that was part of a journey. It was not a beginning. It was not an end. For the energy, the pure energy of Es-see-nah, of Essene, has been always. The manifest expression of this energy has found itself into a self-expression.

Seeing Your Self

How does one maintain light when energies that aren't of the same, yet opposite, seek to show themselves in the direct opposition, yin and yang, of the same self? If you gaze at the left side of your face and then you gaze at the right side of your face, there is a difference. There is not dark. There is not light. There is simply the left side of the face and the right side of the face. And when they face each other, they must attract or repel.

And so in your world, many say “manipulation.” Many say, “What has happened?” Many say, “How can this be? How can life allow?” It is simply yourself gazing at yourself. Do you like what you see?

When I gaze at you, you gaze at me.

When you gaze at you, you gaze at you.

When you gaze at you, you gaze at you.

When your Es-see-nah heart births, you can only gaze at yourself.

In every expression, in every way, to understand the self-revelation of the journey, to experience the self-revelation of the journey from the conscious collection, from the one energy, a pool of energy coagulates into form as a reminder of the “you.” You call these “prophet.” They are simply you. You are the prophet. You are also the sinner. And so when the prophet comes forward, why do you worship a prophet if you do not worship yourself?

Understanding Energy in Form

To understand these markers of energy is to call back to yourself your recognition, your awareness, to be present to, to understand that choice. To understand, we give you great example. At the time of what you call Christ, which was the fourth incarnation of yourself as prophet, there was an Essene, what you call community, that had existed for many thousands years prior to this time, yet there was the self staring at the self creating a moment of, “We wish not to see any more.”

And so the energy of the Essene in form was what some would call attacked. To attack means I wish not to see myself in this form any more. And so this form was challenged. And to challenge a form is to empower an energy that is rising as a collective conscious need to experience. Do you understand this? And so as a collective conscious need to experience comes forward, the one gazing at the one must make choice.

And as any one chooses to shift form again, the energy is like a water of the heart, pouring into a planet, not going away, simply waiting for its re-ignition, for the moment when that time of the One is ready to see the One. As you see the One within the One, how do you choose to call forward your journey and the energies that cannot go away?

All this energy, all this expression, all this light, love, presence, patience, Divine knowing is ever-present here. It does not go away regardless of perception, of persecution, or distraction. It simply patiently waits for the moment of the collective heart to say, “It is time now. I shall find it again.”

In your world of perceived solid matter, you have many, many brethren you call “crystals” that hold these energies. In the time of this world now, these crystals are being discovered again, finding home again, igniting a conscious re-ignition again.

This is only one way. There are many ways. Your world herself is now saying, “It is time for me to melt away a covering of areas that will release great energy again.” For you see, she is on a journey, too; is she not? Yes. Yes. And her journey continues with your journey. It is not one without the other; it is one journey. And so she is assisting you and revealing to you great energy centers that have long been patiently waiting.

There is nothing you can do to force a shift when you already are the shift.

Embracing Peace

And the journey of the soul is simply the journey of love and the self finally at peace with the self.

To be at peace when you gaze in the mirror, when you gaze at all Divine mirrors, is the Es-see-nah way. When you are at complete peace, there cannot be illness. When you are in complete peace, there cannot be disharmony. When you are at complete peace, you only manifest in a way that serves all.

This peace can also not be defined. In your world, peace is often misunderstood. Peace is a gift that comes from knowing right action, comes forward from your heart because you are comfortable gazing in the mirror of all eyes. Of all eyes. When you gaze at you, you see you. When you gaze at each other, you see you. When you gaze anywhere, you see you.

When you find this peace you have found your soul's journey, and when you have found your journey, you are ready for unification.

And your journey has no beginning, your journey has no end. It simply is. And in that Presence, in that recognition, your world unveils everything.

The First Initiation of the Essene Brotherhood (See next page for more instructions)

We will offer you, when you bring your hand this way, and you bring your hand this way, as we have done for you today, you simply hold your attention here and you will feel the energy field ignite between your hands. Yes, it is most beautiful. And as you feel this energy field ignite within your hands, you draw in breath from it. Yes. And the Universal Field ignites within you again. It is that simple. It is that easy.

This ancient practice was the first initiation of the Essene Brotherhood. We offer you this initiation to offer yourself the recognition,

“In this hand is me. In this hand is my reflection. The energy coming forward here is in Divine harmony and peace. I sip this energy into the breath of a body in form and allow my heart to anchor.”

And when you are complete, you bring the hands here and send this blessing out. And as you send the blessing out, you then bring the blessing in. And this is the first of the initiations that ignite the release of the mind of density and re-ignite the recognition of the journey.

We love you.

We are so delighted that your world is ready to reveal to you, as you are ready to reveal to your world.

May your blessings not be counted because they are limitless.

And so it is.

And so it is. (audience response)

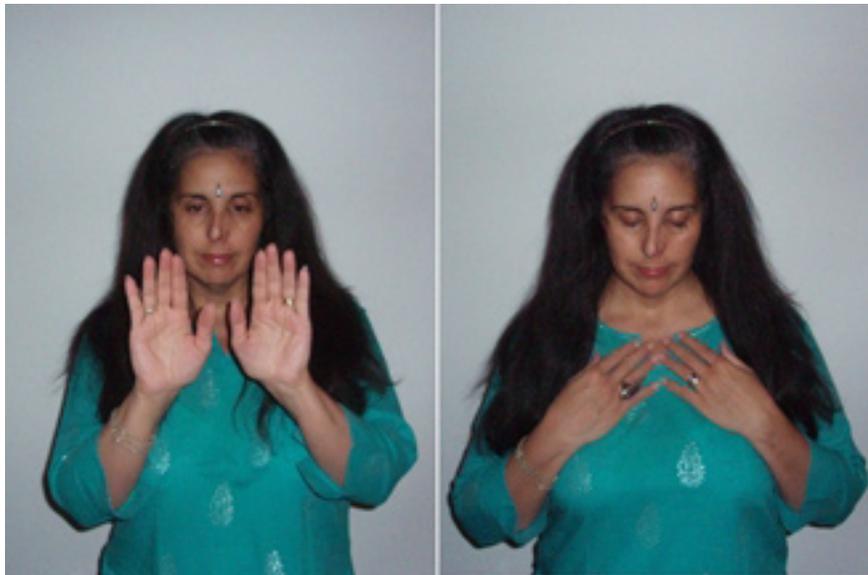

Palms Facing

Breathe the Energy

1. The first position is to hold the hands in front of the heart, palms facing and feel the energy grow. The example was one hand is 'me' and the other hand my reflection (world).
2. Then sip the energy from between the hands and take in the energetic gift to center yourself in Beingness.

Palms Out

Palms to Heart

3. When you are at Peace then offer the gift to the world (hands face out).
4. Then offer the gift to your body/self – hands palm to heart.
